Spain voted number one for nude beaches

Spain and the Spanish islands have Europe's best nude beaches, according to a survey of Britain's naturist holiday-makers. Baring all on the costas won 36% of bare Britons' votes, compared to 34% who named France as their favourite for all-over bathing. In third place were Greece and the Greek islands, with 10%.

These findings were revealed by publishers of 'The World's Best Nude Beaches and Resorts', from a survey of more than 500 UK naturists. "We think this is the largest detailed poll on holiday nudity by the experts and it's amazing to see Spain coming top. Thirty years ago nude bathing was illegal there and now the country and islands have several hundred beaches used by unclad holiday makers. France is well-known for its nude beaches, but we were slightly surprised that Greece came third – other countries such as Croatia have done far more to promote their holidays in the altogether," said Nick Mayhew, author of the guide.

Q2. Which European country has the best naturist resorts?

1. France	54.0%
2. Spain	24.4%
3. Croatia	8.4%
4. Greece	3.8%
5. Germany	1.8%

Q3. Which country has the best potential for growing its naturist market?

1. Spain	27.0%
2. Greece	16.2%
3. UK	14.4%
4. Croatia	13.0%
5. France	6.0%

Q1. Which European country has the best nude beaches?

1. Spain and islands	36.0%
2. France	34.4%
3. Greece and islands	10.4%
4. Croatia	7.8%
5. UK	3.0%

France first for bare resorts

France is however miles ahead when it comes to naturist resorts, winning over half the vote (54%) for its elegant au naturel holiday centres. Spain (24%) and Croatia (9%) have some catching up to do but were ranked second and third respectively. The survey also revealed the countries with the best potential for growing their naturist holiday market: Spain (27%), Greece (16%), the UK (14%) and Croatia (13%) could all benefit from further improving their all-over tourist offering.

"France has embraced nude bathers for much longer than just about every other country, which is why its naturist resorts are still the world's best by a long way," said Nick Mayhew. "Other countries in the survey, particularly Greece, have a good number of naturist beaches but relatively few commercial naturist resorts – although that is starting to change," he added.

White bottoms welcome

Other findings of interest to those who are curious include the best beach for revealing your white bottom for the first time. According to the survey, novices should head for the Spanish beach and naturist resort of Vera Playa, on the Costa Almeria between Almeria and Cartagena.

Other top survey choices for taking the plunge include the French naturist resort beaches of Euronat, near Bordeaux, and Cap d'Agde, near Montpellier. The best islands for first-timers, taking votes for all their beaches into account, are Fuerteventura in the Canaries and Formentera, next to Ibiza in the Balearics.

Islands in the sun

A number of European islands received multiple votes for different nude beaches. Fuerteventura in the Canary islands has 11 beaches recommended in the survey, while Formentera in the Balearics and Crete have five each.

Total votes cast mean the top islands for nude bathing are Fuerteventura, St Martin and Formentera. "Island beaches are the ideal place for escape. You're a world apart from your ordinary life and if you're nervous about stripping off for the first time there's nothing better than putting miles of open water between you and your neighbours!" said Nick Mayhew.

The people's nude beach

The survey also asked naturists to name their favourite nude beach. Top overseas choice was the busy resort beach of Cap d'Agde in France, closely followed by Vera Playa in Spain and Orient Bay on the Caribbean island of St Martin. Among the other favourites were Banana Beach on the Greek island of Skiathos, Maspalomas on Gran Canaria and no less than four French naturist resorts on the Atlantic coast: Euronat, La Jenny, Arnaoutchot and Montalivet.

"The regions with the most popular nude beaches would also sound familiar to those who go on ordinary beach holidays: the Spanish islands, France, the Greek islands and the Caribbean. Nude bathing is not that different from bathing with clothes on – the setting and the activities are the same, after all," said Nick Mayhew.

"Good nude beaches are often right next door to some popular resort beaches. A few minutes' walk – and a moment of courage – are all that separate the clothed from the nude bather in many popular holiday spots. British tourists aren't exactly famous for being shy and retiring, so here's a nice way to do something adventurous while also blending in with the local beach scene."

- 10= Montalivet naturist resort, France
- 10= Sotavento, Fuerteventura, Spain

Bare Britons

Closer to home, the UK's number one nude beach is Studland Bay in Dorset, where a huge and busy naturist section takes full advantage of this long sweep of golden sand and calm sea. Second choice was Morfa Dyffryn in north Wales, another long and sandy beach. Third was Holkham in Norfolk. These three beaches were also listed as the best places to try if you are baring all for the first time.

Britain's worst nude beach – by quite some distance – is Brighton's very public section of pebbles at the eastern end of the seafront. A massive 20% of respondents named it their least favourite place for stripping off; no other beach in Europe came close to receiving such a significant number of votes.

Nul points for nudity

Ten countries in Europe scored nul points for having the best beaches for nul clothing – but Britain thankfully was not among them. A patriotic 3% of Britain's naturists claimed our own islands had the best beaches for baring all. Those failing to score any votes include the landlocked Czech Republic and Luxembourg, along with Belgium, Estonia, Finland, Lithuania, Montenegro, Norway, Russia and Slovenia. "Perhaps UK naturists are slightly unadventurous when it comes to picking their holiday destinations. All 10 of these countries do actually have well-known naturist beaches or resorts. There's a whole world waiting to be explored by those who enjoy wearing their birthday suits on the beach," said Nick Mayhew. It may be that UK naturists are not quite so active in visiting beaches generally. Most (54%) expect to visit only three beaches or fewer in the coming year.
